

In Indonesia, four men have been arrested for smuggling about 150 exotic birds which were meant to be transported to the Philippines. The police found the animals stuffed into plastic drain pipes that were sealed at each end by a wire. In the US, this delivery is worth approximately $250,000. Those exotic birds are often illegally sold as pets and are seen as status symbols. Nearly one week after discovering the illegally captured birds, the police had managed to track down four men who are allegedly responsible for this act. According to police officials they had several eyewitness accounts which led to the arrests. The suspects face up to five years in prison and an up to $8000 fine if found guilty. The case rests on several eyewitness reports which provide a very strong case and there have been inconsistencies in the testimonies of the four suspects. Thus, a conviction seems likely.

Four Indonesian men have been caught trying to smuggle 150 exotic birds with a value over $250,000 into the Philippines. These birds were held in pipes sealed if by wire and are often sold as pets as they are seen as a status symbol. The conviction will depend on the testimony of eye witnesses, but as there are many and the four suspects have had issues keeping their story straight a conviction is likely.

The police found the animals stuffed into plastic pipes whose ends were sealed with wire. In the US these birds have a value of $250000. They are kept as pets and are seen as status symbols. A week after the birds were found police arrested four men. If convicted they face up to $8000 in fines and five years in prison. Several eyewitness accounts led to the arrests of the men. These accounts plus inconsistencies in the men testimonies mean that a conviction on the charges is likely.

Four men in Indonesia face an $8000 fine and up to five years in prison for killing exotic birds illegally. They made around $250000 off of these exotic birds.

Four men were found trying to smuggle some exotic Birds stuffed inside of some plastic pipes. the men were arrested and they are likely to be convicted because inconsistencies in their testimony. Plus, several eyewitnesses gave statements.

The police came across some birds stuffed in pipes with the ends wrapped in wire. The birds were worth a lot in the USA. Four men were eventually caught for the incident and faced fines up to 8000 dollars with some where close to five years in jail. There were witness that help point to the men that did the crime.

Four men are facing fines of 8000 dollars and up to five years in prison for profiting 250000 dollars off of the illegal hunting of exotic birds.

Four men in Indonesia have been fined and risk 5 years in the jail for killing exotic birds. The estimated amount of money coming from this traffic is about 250k USD.

four men have been apprehended for tring to smuggle exotic birds inside a plastic pipe. They will most likely be convicted because if inconsistencies in there stories.

Four men are facing fines and prison for poaching of exotic birds.