

Since mid-April 2018, a region in Bavaria, Germany, has faced a series of purposefully set fires burning trash cans, a car and even an entire town house. At its peak, eight different fires were started in a single night. Fortunately, nobody was hurt, but the material damages were estimated at around $450,000. The police could not make significant advances in finding the perpetrator, until they publicly offered a reward of $6000 for each helpful tip. A black shirt with a unique design which was found on one of the crime scenes might have given the critical clue. About a week ago, the police arrested a 37 year old suspect on charges of severe arson. If found guilty, he will face up to 10 years in prison. According to recent reports, experts believe that the evidence against him is strong enough for a conviction, especially since his statements about his whereabouts seem to show some inconsistencies.

A man has been arrested in Germany with the accusation of setting fires in trash cans, a car, and a house. The police found a black t-shirt on the scene of one of the fires, and blocked this man, that, if found guilty, might have to face 10 years of prison.

A man has been arrested in Germany for setting fires. The police blocked him. He faces ten years in prison

In a region of Bavaria, Germany, there have been a rash of fires. There have been trash fires, car fires and even a house was set on fire. The perpetrator has been hard to find. A $6000 reward was offered for every bit of information forwarded about the arsonist. One piece of evidence was a black tshirt found at a crime scene. It had an unusual design on it. Police eventually arrested a 37-year old man for extreme arson. No details are given as to how this man was picked as the suspected criminal.

In a region of Bavaria, Germany, there has been a rash of fires. There has been trash fires, car fires, and even house fires. The perpetrator has been hard to find. A $6000 reward was offered for information about the arsonist. One piece of evidence was a black tshirt found at the crime scene. Police eventually arrested a man for extreme arson. There were no details about how the man was arrested as the suspected criminal.

A $6,000 reward was offered to capture an extreme arson in Bavaria, Germany. He had been setting trash cans, cars, and even houses on fire. Police found pieces of a black t-shirt on the scene and have arrested but not convicted a suspect.

An arsonist has been terrorizing the streets of Bavaria, Germany burning down several different types of properties. The police were unable to get any clues that would help to find the criminal until they offered a 6,000 dollar reward for good clues. Eventually, they used a tshirt with a unique design on it to single out a 37 year old man. They arrested him and he was charged with severe arson.

A guy has been burning down properties in Germany. The police offered a reward and found the guy and charged him with arson