In Indonesia, four men have been arrested for smuggling about 150 exotic birds which were meant to be transported to the Philippines. The police found the animals stuffed into plastic drain pipes that were sealed at each end by a wire. In the US, this delivery is worth approximately $250,000. Those exotic birds are often illegally sold as pets and are seen as status symbols. Nearly one week after discovering the illegally captured birds, the police had managed to track down four men who are allegedly responsible for this act. According to police officials they had several eyewitness accounts which led to the arrests. The suspects face up to five years in prison and an up to $8000 fine if found guilty. However, the case rests on an anonymous tip which provides a very weak case and all four suspects still deny any connection to the smuggling affair. Thus, a conviction seems unlikely.

In Indonesia, four men stole 150 exotic birds. They were stuffed Four men were caught trying to smuggle 150 rare birds in Indonesia. and tied with razor wire. They are worth $250,000 in the US, and They had them stuffed somewhere to keep them secret. They were very disheartening to know people smuggle with exotic birds and are often used as pets or status symbols. A week later, the police shove them down the drain, its upsetting and makes me want to arrested and a few eyewitnesses saw them doing it. But they were tracked down the men thanks to eye witness accounts. If convicted, the men face up to five years in jail and an $8000 fine. However, know more about the topic. first arrested because of an anonymous tip. So they probably won't be getting convicted. it is unlikely they will be convicted because the eyewitness report is flimsy and the men deny all charges. Poachers are accused of stealing and illegally transporting about a quarter of a million dollars worth of exotic birds. The birds were tied together with razor wire and crammed in together. The Very sad to know people smuggle with birds and then shove them men will likely get off. Even if convicted they would only have down the drain. to pay a small fraction of the value of the birds.. about 8,000 dollars. It is unlikely they will even be convicted because eyewitness accounts are flimsy. This is tragic.

In Indonesia, four men stole 150 exotic birds worth $250,000. If caught, they are going to face fines and up to 8 years in prison.

A bunch of birds were poached and held together with wire. The men who poached them will likely only have to pay a fine of about 8,000 dollars because the eyewitnesses are unreliable.

Birds were poached and held in wire cages. Due to the eyewitness accounts being unreliable, the perpetrators will only face 8,000 in fines.