Since mid-April 2018, a region in Bavaria, Germany, has faced a series of purposefully set fires burning trash cans, a car and even an entire town house. At its peak, eight different fires were started in a single night. Fortunately, nobody was hurt, but the material damages were estimated at around $450,000. The police could not make significant advances in finding the perpetrator, until they publicly offered a reward of $6000 for each helpful tip. A black shirt with a unique design which was found on one of the crime scenes might have given the critical clue. About a week ago, the police arrested a 37 year old suspect on charges of severe arson. If found guilty, he will face up to 10 years in prison. According to recent reports, experts believe that the evidence against him is strong enough for a conviction, especially since his statements about his whereabouts seem to show some inconsistencies.

Since mid-April, a certain location in Bavaria, Germany has been experiencing a series of arson related crimes, where fires were started on purpose and cars and houses were burned. There was no reported loss of life, but damages have been costly running to the tune of $450,000. The police weren't able to make any breakthroughs in the case until they offered a reward of $6000 for any tips related to the case. One week ago, they were finally able to arrest a 37 year old man and if found guilty he will face up to 10 years in prison.

a region in balviria has been experiencing fires like trash cans or a car.Eight different fires were started at a night and the damages were 450,000 and noone was hurt.A person wearing a black shirt was at the scene of the crime and they arrested a 37 year old on severe arson.The person if guilty can face up to ten years in prison.

Bavaria, Germany has suffered a number of fires containing trash cans, even homes

Bavaria, Germany, has faced a number of fires in trashcans, even homes.

There are a lot of fire in trash cans in Germany.